All,

Both boats were weathered off the water today. The Pandalus made a long and slow run in from S12 yesterday and spent today in the Port Moller area. The Ocean spent last night behind Hagemeister Island and ventured out this morning headed for Station 20. After a few hours of 12'-14' seas and strong winds they deemed it unfishable and turned back to hide another night near H. Island.

Both boats will attempt tomorrow starting very early. Winds tomorrow will improve significantly over today, but the big seas from a SW'er may take a bit to lie down. We are thinking that 7/7 seems like a lucky day to get a good set of stations fished... fingers crossed.
